

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

Methods of the invention generally include measuring a quantitative amount of nucleic acid in a patient sample, and optionally, performing additional disease testing on the patient.

Methods of the invention are useful in screening disease in a patient, such as cancer.